

On-Site DISC Workshop

Team Building & Improving Communication

"The art of communication is the language of leadership."

Do you want your organization to have more effective communication, increased productivity, a better bottom line and stronger teams?

The DISC assessment will provide the information to produce these outcomes. Finding Resolution takes the results and analyzes how teams can best blend, adapt and interact with others. This workshop enables team members to stop repeating what's not working and discover what is missing to better connect with team members.

Finding Resolution's on-site DISC workshop provides insight on communication styles for participants and their colleagues. First, participants take the DISC assessment to learn their communication style prior to the workshop. Next, during the workshop participants learn characteristics of the other communication styles and how better to "talk" with individuals having that style
